

Building Scenarios

Preparing Now for an Uncertain Future

*A virtual gathering hosted by John McCann
President, Partners in Performance*

An Overview

Participating in this interactive learning community will help you:

- Assure the process of building scenarios animates the best thinking of you and your colleagues
- Identify the three critical biases which limit the best thinking
- Review case studies of successful scenario building exercises
- Practice together some of the most useful approaches to research, engagement and crafting scenarios

The session will be recorded and available to participants. There will also be access to a small number of curated resources including videos, websites, articles, and books.

Session Takeaways

1. The capacity to introduce scenarios and scenario building into your organization
2. A framework for identifying the highly important, yet quite uncertain driving forces for consideration
3. A robust set of curated resources essential to building useful scenarios
4. Best practices to guide engagement, inquiry, and research in ways that result in a series of legitimate scenarios for your organization

Your Facilitator

John McCann, President of Partners in Performance brings three decades of experience in designing and facilitating visioning and strategy development, organizational culture change, and conflict resolution.

He also develops robust virtual and onsite learning environments. He has taught Creating a Learning Organization, Team Learning, and The Leader as Facilitator for the Central Intelligence Agency and the Office of Director of National Intelligence, Governance as Leadership and Designing Effective Meetings for Duke University's Nonprofit Management Program.

Post-Katrina, he served as a member of the 12-person team that helped craft the citizen-developed principles to guide the work of the Louisiana Recovery and Rebuilding Authority.

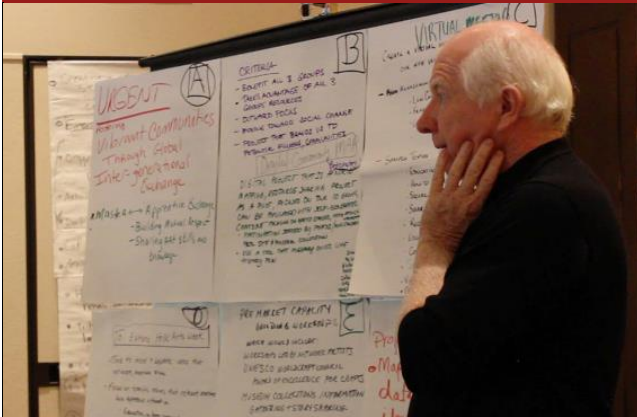

He has facilitated internationally for the Global Folk Art Network, and the Women's Regional Network, a group of committed Mideast peacemakers working in the border region of Iran, Iraq, and Afghanistan.
